WINDOWS AND WEATHER

Little Talks on Health and Hygiene by Samuel G. Dixon, M. D.

Does your bedroom window drop with the mercury? Do the window openings that cannot be too wide in the summer time gradually narrow down to an inch or two at this season of the year? Do you think that your need for fresh air diminishes with the arrival of the first cold wave? If so, you are greatly mistaken.

If the thought of wide open windows in zero weather is appalling, pluck up courage and try a small dose first. You will find that it is far better to spend more money for blankets and comforters than for doctor bills and medicine, and eight hours sleep in cool fresh invigorating air is a far better stimulant than anything that comes in bottles, no matter what the claims on the label.

It may be that your daily business demands your presence in stuffy, overheated workrooms or offices where the regulation of the temperature is not within your individual control. It may be that your fellow workers or employers are not wise enough to appreciate the value from a business standpoint of good ventilation in the workrooms. If it is your misfortune to be so confined try and make up for it by giving yourself the maximum amount of ventilation during the hours of sleep.

Night is the time for mental and physical building up. This demands fresh air. It is impossible to properly purify the blood with used air. It is just as necessary to bathe the blood while it is passing through the lungs with clean air as to bathe your body with clean water.

Sleeping with your windows wide open the year round is a matter of habit and of bed clothes. Nature intended us to have fresh air to breathe both day and night. If you have any lingering memories of the old wives' tale that night air is injurious, put it aside. This like many another old saying has no foundation in fact.

JUST IN TIME

Some Bedford People May Wait Till It's Too Late.

Don't wait until too late. Be sure to be in time. Just in time with kidney pills. Means curing the backache, the dizziness, the urinary disorders. That so often come with kidney troubles.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for this very purpose.

Here is testimony to prove their merit.

W. H. Blume, carpenter, 231 Beachy St., Meyersdale, Pa., says: "I was troubled by my kidneys. I couldn't sleep well and sharp pains darted through the small of my back. I didn't know what to do. My druggist suggested that I use Doan's Kidney Pills and I did. I want to say that they are all right. I took about three boxes and am now feeling better than ever. I always recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to my friends and keep them on hand at all times." Price 50c, at all dealers. Do You Know of a Blind Baby?

In May 1913 the State of Pennsylvania passed a bill providing for the care, maintenance and instruction of blind babies and children, known as Senate bill No. 50 of the Laws of 1913. This law gives the State Board of Education power to provide for suitable care, maintenance and instruction of babies and children under school age, having power to contract with any institution furnishing facilities for such care—paying a dollar a day for the same.

Pennsylvania has six children in the Arthur Home for blind babies, Summit, N. J.—the only institution in the whole United States that will take any blind baby from any State and give it proper physical care, and mental training, until it is the proper age to enter the State institutions provided for the older blind.

Fourteen States are already represented, and one little boy from Cuba, forty children being the total number now in the Home and as many more have been graduated.

If you know of a blind baby or you have one write promptly to Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden, 96 Fifth Avenue, N. Y. City, founder of the Sunshine Blind Baby Institutions, and she will give you all information.

She maintains that the public has no right to assume that because a baby is blind it has no brains. Her ten years work in behalf of the baby blind demonstrates that the blind should be cared for from the day they are blinded and one should not wait until they are of school age, when blind children in the past have been eligible to State Institutions.

She declares that the blind become feeble-minded from lack of care not from lack of brains, and if the children are given attention from the day of blindness few, if any will be refused at the State Schools at the age of eight, because of being too backward or feeble-minded to take advantage of the training there prepared for them.

It is your duty, therefore, since the State now makes provision for the care of the baby blind to report such a child if you ever see or hear of one in your State.

Would Aid Unfortunates

W. C. Graves, superintendent of an Illinois reformatory, recommends the purchase of more land for that institution. He would have more of the inmates trained in outdoor work.

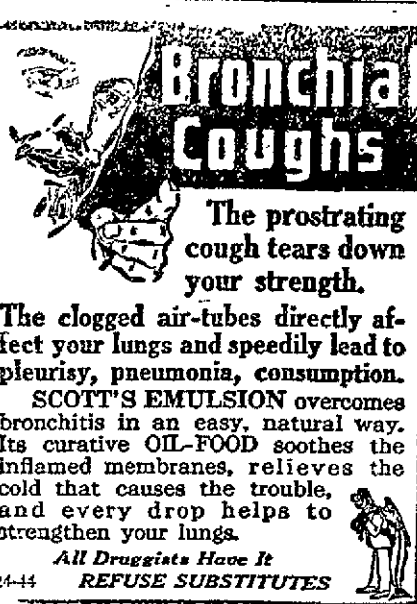

"It is an acknowledged fact," he says in his annual report to the Governor, "that placing inmates on honor farms and teaching them scientific farming, where they can be taught to work and have the open air, is the most scientific way of reforming young men."

"It is astonishing to know the number of boys who have been raised on the streets of our large cities, and who are inmates of this institution, who are anxious to become farmers, and love that kind of work. Statistics show that ninety per cent. of the boys paroled as farm hands, after having been taught the art of farming at this institution, make good farmers and substantial citizens."

Another recommendation made by the superintendent has to do with classifying and dividing defective inmates from the others. He believes there should be a separate institution for defectives. He would, too, change the age limit so that first offenders between the age of sixteen and twenty-five may be admitted. Offenders under sixteen should be excluded, he says.

All Druggists Have It REFUSE SUBSTITUTES

A HOME MEDICINE CHEST

Every household has its tried and true remedies for the various ailments to which the flesh is heir. Too often, however, these remedies are not conveniently at hand when the emergency arises which calls for their use. A family medicine chest, stocked with staple, simply administered remedies for the relief of the lighter ailments, or in case of serious emergencies, to give intelligent treatment "until the doctor comes," is a necessity that no well-regulated household should be without. One of the most satisfactory chests for family use is a plain box built to the wall. This should be supplied with shelves and a hinged door, fitted with a lock and key. The precaution of a lock and key is most important where there are children, and even where there are none, it is safest on general principles. Among the standard remedies recommended by physicians as worthy of a place in the home emergency chest are the following:

Aromatic Spts. Ammonia 3 oz. bottle
Castor Oil 3 oz. bottle
Syrup of Ginger 3 oz. bottle
Syrup of Ipecac 3 oz. bottle
Essence Peppermint 3 oz. bottle
Listerine 3 oz. bottle
Sweet Spts Nitre 3 oz. bottle
Oil of Cloves 1 drachm
Epsom Salts 2 oz.
Calomel (1-100 grain) 50
Quinine (2 gr. capsules) 4 doz.
Carbolized Salve 3 oz. jar
Hydrogen Peroxide 3 oz. bottle
Sweet Oil 3 oz. bottle
Turpentine 3 oz. bottle
Carron Oil: (consists of one half lime and one half raw linseed oil; mix) 1 pt. of each
Dry Sulphur 1/2 pound
Lime Water 1 quart

Other remedies of proved value can be added to this and in addition the chest should contain rolls of soft clean linen for bandages; a glass medicine dropper, atomizer for spraying nose and throat, package of court plaster, absorbent cotton, safety pins, etc.

Uses and Application of These Remedies

Aromatic Spirits of Ammonia—Useful as a stimulant; often used in place of alcoholic stimulants where their use is objected to. Is also useful in cases of acid dyspepsia, nervous or sick headache, and simple nervousness. Dose for adult 1/4 teaspoonful in third of a tumbler of cold water; for child, ten drops in fourth tumbler of water. This may be given every fifteen minutes until four or five doses have been taken.

Castor Oil—General use is well known.

Syrup of Ginger—Good for diarrhoea with cramping pains. Dose: One-third teaspoonful in one-third glass of water every hour for four doses.

Syrup of Ipecac—A good emetic if used freely. Adult should be given tablespoonful; infant as near a teaspoonful as possible. It will do no harm and too much is a safer risk than not enough. It is used in cases of poisoning, convulsions, croup, whooping cough or asthma.

Essence of Peppermint—A few drops in warm sweetened water excellent for colic. Also good in cases of indigestion, for adults.

Listerine—Excellent for gargling of sore throat or sore mouth. Not intended to swallow, but is not harmful.

Sweet Spirits of Nitre—Teaspoonful added to tumbler of water; dose for adults, tablespoonful; for child of any age, teaspoonful of the mixture every half hour. Good for fever. Promotes healthy activity of skin and kidneys and will often loosen a tight cough.

Oil of Cloves—Used chiefly for toothache, a piece of cotton being saturated and inserted in tooth.

Epsom Salts—A tested and tried cathartic. Adult take tablespoonful dissolved in tumblerful of water.

Calomel—A 1-10 grain tablet every half hour for ten doses for adult, four doses for children, is effective cure for acute constipation.

Quinine—Standard remedy for breaking up cold, or for malarial attacks. For internal hemorrhage of women 10 grains mixed with water will often promptly check and should be given in every case.

Carbolized Salve—Cleansing and healing for bruises.

Hydrogen Peroxide—A valuable cleanser of infected wounds.
Sweet Oil—Healing for sore spots and bruises.

Turpentine—Danger of lockjaw may be averted if wound caused by nails or other metal is kept well soaked with turpentine. For tight cold on chest, greasing with lard or sweet oil to prevent blistering, then generous application of turpentine.

Carron Oil—Invaluable for burns.
Dry Sulphur—In case of ulcerated sore throat, nothing is more effective than to cover the ulcers with the dry sulphur by inhaling with a clay pipe.
Lime Water—Excellent to settle sick stomachs. Good to give children in the milk in hot weather.

Ground Hog Day

Last Tuesday, February 2, was "ground hog day." According to old superstition if the ground hog sees his shadow on that day, winter will continue for six weeks. Should the day be cloudy throughout that objects cast no shadow, we may expect fair weather and the opening of spring. "Ground Hog" is the name given the English woodchuck.

Drugless Healing

The Hyomei Catarrh Remedy is Nature's Own Method.

It certainly would be ridiculous for you to take a pill to heal a burn, but no more so than to try to cure catarrh, coughs, croup or head colds, by dosing the stomach.

Medicate the air you breathe with Hyomei—that's the sensible way. This treatment goes directly to the sore and congested membrane lining the nose and throat and makes a rapid and lasting end of distressing catarrh ills.

Hyomei is nature's true method of treating all diseases affecting the air passages, and the most economical. The Hyomei complete outfit consists of a small hard rubber inhaler and a bottle of Hyomei, and never costs over a dollar. If your trouble is deep-seated and should require a little more of the liquid an extra bottle of Hyomei will cost but a trifle.

Hyomei is sold by F. W. Jordan, Jr., with a guarantee to return the money if it does not make a satisfactory cure.—Adv. 5 Feb. 2t.

Stomach Trouble Quickly Cured

People go on suffering from little stomach troubles for years, and imagine they have a serious disease. They over-eat or over-drink and force on the stomach a lot of extra work, but they never think that the stomach needs extra help to do the extra work.

If these people would take Tonaline Tablets regularly they would be a great big help to the stomach in its strain of over-work. No matter what you eat or drink Tonaline tabs sweeten your sour stomach and stop gas belching in five minutes. The heaviness disappears, and the stomach is greatly aided in its work of digestion.

Tonaline Tablets not only promptly relieve all distress, but if taken regularly will absolutely cure indigestion by building up the flabby, overworked walls of the stomach and make them strong enough to digest the most hearty meal. $1 for a 50 days' treatment. Mailed by American Proprietary Co., Boston, Mass.—Ad. 15 Jan 4t

New Enterprise

February 2—Mrs. Elizabeth Ober has been visiting her son, L. R. Ober, of Curryville for a few days.

Miss Edna Ober, our primary teacher, was off duty last Thursday on account of illness. Miss Effie Snowberger filled the vacancy.

Mrs. John Wyles is in a Philadelphia hospital where she underwent an operation. She is getting along very nicely.

Ira Campbell has been suffering from pneumonia for some time but is slowly improving.

Mrs. Jacob Snider was in Philadelphia last week for treatment.

It looked quite natural to see A. S. Ebersole back on his old job last week. His huckster was sick and he was helping him out.

The evangelistic services which Rev. C. E. Johnson has been conducting here for the past few weeks have closed. There were a few conversions. They expect to take the applicants to Martinsburg to be immersed in the baptism of the Brethren Church at that place.

Joseph Campbell and Miss Ada Guyer of this place disappeared very suddenly Thursday evening and returned Monday morning man and wife. As both are teaching in this vicinity, they returned to their respective schools without giving their friends a chance to serenade them. May their life's pathway be strewn with roses is the wish of your scribe.

Mr. and Mrs. Snyder are both critically ill of pneumonia.

Temperance

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

PEOPLE TO BE TRUSTED.

The reason why governments have not done and are not doing their duty toward the suppression of alcohol is, in the last analysis, says Congressman Hobson, "based on the absence of public opinion on the part of the masses as to the true nature of alcohol and the appalling results that come from its use." And Dr. T. D. Crothers, the noted expert on alcoholism, declares that "if the actual effects of alcohol were known by the people, prohibiting its use would follow as a natural and reasonable demand." To bring to the people knowledge concerning the nature of alcohol and its effects upon the individual, the family, the state, is the purpose of the organized campaign of education now being carried on throughout the land from remote countryside to halls of congress. Given the facts, the intelligent people of this nation will soon settle the liquor question and settle it right. Bring the truth to the masses!

JAILS ARE EMPTY.

The Telegram (Wheeling, W. Va.), speaking enthusiastically of the changed conditions in Wheeling, tells us that "On the 8th of July the prisoners were so thoroughly cleaned out of the workhouse that when the jail officials sent for some men to clean the jail there were not enough men in prison to do it, and the jail officials had to do the work themselves."

One instance is related of a former leader of the wets who is in the grocery business. A man who had owed him a grocery bill for four years came in the first pay day after the saloons were closed and gave him $10 on his account. He explained that now that he could not spend his money for booze, he would have to pay his honest bills. Similar incidents are related by the hundreds from all over the state.

"INFERNAL REVENUE."

"We are told that we must have the liquor traffic for the revenue it yields, for the vast sum that flows annually into the coffers of the nation through infernal-internal revenue," said Michael Fanning, in a masterly address in Salt Lake City. "Who pays this revenue? Not the liquor dealer. The average liquor dealer in the United States last year took in $3,700 and paid out an average of $520, the difference being the liquor dealer's toll. This, in the last analysis, is paid by starving wives, besotted husbands, helpless orphans, betrayed maidhood, blasted careers, wreck, ruin, despair and death."

WHAT DOES HE GET?

A New York business man puts it this way: "Suppose two workmen, quitting on Saturday, each with, say, $12 in his pay envelope. One goes to the corner saloon and spends $4 for drink—going home to his family drunk, and with $8 in his pocket, while the other goes to the corner and deliberately throws $4 out of his pay envelope into the sewer—going home sober, and with $8 in his pocket. Which is the better husband and father? What did the first man purchase with his money?"

ENORMOUS WASTE.

The man of this world is no longer indifferent to the mountainous waste represented by the saloon and its attendant vices. The statesman more than the preacher, the ballot box more than the pulpit, is called upon to confront this awful waste of human energy, this dissipation of earth's resources, this misdirection of man's toil. It is by the decree of the economist, of the good statesman, the boasted practical man of business, the manager of railroads and the directors of banks, that the saloon has got to go.—Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones.

NO JUVENILE CASES.

Recently a superintendent of the department of juvenile courts of the Kansas W. C. T. U. wrote to the juvenile court judges of the different counties of the state in an endeavor to learn the status of the work in each community. One judge reported, "We have no probation officers because we have needed none. During the past three years we have had no juvenile cases." Another judge wrote, "No children have ever been sent to institutions from this county."

GOOD BUSINESS.

The London Daily Chronicle, recording the fact that a large employer of labor has decided to pay the total abstinence among his men 10 per cent higher wages than the drinkers, states that he does this as a purely business proposition and in the interests of efficiency; he has no special ambition as a guardian of morality.

REVENUE FOR COUNTRY.

Ask your anti-saloon and prohibition friend what he would do to raise proper revenue for the country in case of national prohibition?—Liquor Journal. Anyway, we'd stop making drunkards' wives take in washing and drunkards' babies go without milk to raise them.—Prohibition Paper.

QUOR INTERESTS DOMINATE?

Do you want to let the liquor interest dominate your parties, your public life, and your government?—Theodore Roosevelt.

PENNSYLVANIA HORSE BREEDERS TAKE NOTICE

Horse market events have taken such a definite turn that there can no longer be any question of the outcome of horse breeding in this country, hence we feel fully warranted in bringing the production of market horses to every farmer's attention.

Following are a few facts worthy of note:

1. There is every indication that the Normal Demand for business and farm horses will be resumed this spring.

2. With the exportation of some 500,000 horses during this year, many of which are of the sort required here, the supply with which to meet home demand is sadly depleted.

3. Foreign demand marked the exhaustion of foreign supply, therefore, we may expect the call for our horses, from abroad, to continue long after the war is over.

4. This country's supply of market horses is furnished, in large part, by foreign sires, the importation of which cannot be resumed until the continental and even the British districts have recovered from the devastating and depopulating effects of the war. In the meantime American breeders will have to depend upon home-bred breeding stock, which, as a result, should be much in demand.

5. The most reliable predictions are for unprecedented high prices in the future.

In confirmation of the above the following quotations are offered: "The great scarcity all over western Europe when the war is ended will be of hard, mature horses six or seven years and upwards, suitable for town and city work. This will be a great problem. How are they to be had? In spite of the high prices it will be very difficult to fill the demand. There will be great activity in horse breeding all over the world. The American Farmer should keep more mares and work and breed from them wherever possible. This is the time to begin for those not already in the game."

This great war has proved one thing—that the horse is indispensable, and always will be.—John Ashton—Breeder's Gazette.

"Never were the guide posts lettered so plainly, seldom has the turn in the lane been so short a distance ahead, never has the prospect for the horse breeders been tinted with quite so rich a rosy hue."—John Mason—National Stockman and Farmer.

In view of these facts the following recommendations are made to Pennsylvania horse breeders:

1. Do not take advantage of the present war demand to sacrifice horses which will have a greater value in the spring trade.
2. Thin geldings and mares of the right type should make good profit on present cost when fit for market later in the year.
3. Anticipate the market rise by buying required horses now.
4. Breed your mares, but to pure-bred stallions of merit and proven worth as sires. We hope there will never be another war to absorb the product of our errors and short sighted policy in the patronage of cheap sires.
5. Study the markets; know what your colts are worth and secure full value for them.
6. Hold well selected breeding stock in highest regard in view of the responsibility imposed upon American breeders by the suspension of imports and the destruction of breeding stock abroad.
7. Sit tight; do not get panic stricken but restore your confidence in the horse business; proceed intelligently; aim high.

THEIR WISE OLD UNCLE

By JENNIE KENNER.

When Appleby broke the news to his young wife that his Uncle Jack was coming to make them a visit she expressed pleasure at the prospect as cheerfully as she could, but she looked alarmed.

"He's a jolly old boy," said Appleby. "I know you'll like him, Arabella."

"But I'm afraid he won't like me, John."

"Nonsense, why not, I'd like to know? Of course he'll fall in love with you at the first glance just as I did."

"Flatterer!" laughed Mrs. Appleby. "But seriously I know he'll be scandalized at the way we live."

"Why, my dear girl, what's the matter with the way we live? Haven't we a cozy little flat, and don't we get excellent meals in the very first apartment below?"

"Yes, but you know you have told me yourself that your Uncle Jack has very rigid, old-fashioned opinions on the duties of wives, and he'll think me lazy and incompetent because I don't cook our own meals myself. I just know he will."

"Yes, Arabella, but you're so quick and bright, you could learn to cook in no time. All you need is a little practice."

"But I don't want to practice on your uncle, Jack! That would be a fearfully dangerous experiment."

"Well, then, why not have our meals sent up?" Appleby asked.

"Yes, we could do it easily. Mrs. Briggs could send our meals up the back stairs, and I could put them on the table and we'd serve them just as if they had been cooked in our own little kitchen. I think it's a splendid plan."

Appleby seized upon the idea eagerly, for he realized that his uncle was not likely to look with favor upon their present mode of life. Inside of half an hour they had persuaded Mrs.

"Don't Be Ashamed."

Briggs, at whose table they took their meals, to do her share.

When Uncle Jack arrived he showed every sign of being highly pleased with his nephew's wife and their home. He continually congratulated the young pair on their good sense in starting out so early to make a real home instead of this "infernal boarding house," as he called it, and at every meal nearly he praised Mrs. Appleby for her good housekeeping. And things did run with astonishing smoothness.

"Now don't blush, little girl," he said when the young woman was one day quite overcome by his warm appreciation of the cooking. "John is a mighty lucky chap to have such a capable helpmeet as you."

Another time she was almost reduced to tears when, handing her his notebook, he asked her to jot down the rule for the delicious pudding they had had that night, so that he could have his housekeeper make it.

"Oh, Uncle Jack, I'll have to look in the book and see," she said. "I'll copy it for you tomorrow."

"Very well, my dear. You see, I'm anxious to carry home some of your culinary secrets."

At this Appleby laughed so uproariously that his wife was obliged to retreat from the room in disorder, and when John hastily joined her she exclaimed between laughter and tears: "I'm not going to carry on this deception any longer. I'm ashamed of myself."

"Don't be ashamed," said Uncle Jack. He had followed them unobserved to the kitchen. They turned and looked at him in consternation. He laughed at their confusion.

"You needn't be ashamed of the deception, for there wasn't any," he went on. "I came out here the very first day of my visit to black my shoes, and Mrs. Briggs' maid was just bringing up the soup for dinner and she told me all."

"And you've been having a bit of fun with us," young Appleby said grumpily.

"Well, I thought it was a good joke, and a clever one, too. Now, Arabella, I'll tell you what I wish to give you as a parting present, my dear—a course at the domestic science school."

"Oh, Uncle Jack," she laughed, "that makes us more than even, but I'll accept it gladly."—Chicago Daily News.

FASHION GLEANINGS FROM PARIS

The Separate Blouse Shows the Addition

Sand and Putty Colored Waists

New York, February 1, 1915.
It is said that Berlin has been much the same during the war as at other times, excepting for the war spirit, and the grief at the bulletin boards. It has been the Kaiser's wish that things should be as unaffected as possible, and, as he is well beloved, as well as feared, the people, especially the women, have shown their grief but little.

In Paris the fear of invasion was great, and immediately things were closed—no lights were allowed, the cafes could not be open, the theaters were shut down, and a curfew told people that their lights must be out. It was natural that this should affect business, but now things have changed and are taking on a much more normal outlook.

Crepe de Chine and Lace Combined in a Gown with Waist in Bolero Effect.

The dressmaking houses which have been kept open are doing business, with the United States at least, and Rodier, the great manufacturer of fabrics reports that he is furnishing materials to the Callot Sisters, Cheruit, Premet and Beer.

The theaters are opening and many are crowded, but not by the fashionable audience that one would expect under different circumstances. The women of Paris are avoiding the extremes which have always been their hobby in style. The very tight skirt has been discarded, but the very full skirt, which was thought would by this time be the Parisian style of the moment, has not as yet been fully accepted. However, the gowns which were worn by the actresses had certain elements worth remembering.

A dress of black velvet, which was worn by a French actress, had long, tight-fitting sleeves and a square, low neck, with a Medici collar in the back. The skirt was full and drawn in around the bottom. A length of the velvet was draped over the hips and ended in a train. The entire gown was devoid of trimming, which gave a richness that no amount of embellishment could have aided.

Long sleeves are to be seen on all gowns. I asked a prominent New York dressmaker not long ago if she would make long sleeves for summer, and she replied: "I most certainly will unless my customer insists otherwise."

A charming afternoon dress is pictured herewith which shows somewhat the bolero effect, together with the long sleeves, which are most striking features of the present styles. The waist is made with an under-waist of crepe de Chine with the bolero effect in wide lace. The sleeves of this outer waist are short and the lace, while long net sleeves extend to the wrist. The skirt of crepe de Chine is shirred several times at the waist and hips, and is finished at the top with a frill of itself. Three graduated bands of net are the only trimming on the skirt.

This is a frock which may be worn again and again, as its long sleeves and high collar give it a distinctly day-time air, while the material makes it elaborate enough for many evening functions.

The separate waist takes on different features with the changing of the season, and there is no end to the numerous models, although they all bear a resemblance one with the other.

This season the high collar has been the newest note in these waists. A few good models have been made with the high collar, but it is much harder to achieve than the waist with the round, wedge, or rolling collars.

Some of the waists are made with a V neck and a high collar above it, leaving a little of the neck or chest exposed. This is unique, but gives such a look of something left out, or unfinished that it is scarcely popular. Others are made with a straight band around the neck and a ruff of net or chiffon above and below it. The best of the high-necked waists button straight up the front, from the waistline to the top of the collar. A stunning waist which I saw not long ago was made with the collar in one with the body of the waist, the shoulder seam extending into the side seam of the collar. This collar wrinkles around the neck charmingly and was held from working down into a string around the neck by bones at the back and sides of the collar.

It does not seem possible that these high-collared blouses and frocks will altogether supersede the low collars which we have been wearing for so long. The women have felt the comfort of doing without anything about the throat, the necks have revived from the old tight collars and become more beautiful, and it does not seem as though they could consent to the wearing them on everything again.

There is no way to tell just what the lingerie waist of the summer will become. There is said to be a revival of the old "button-in-the-back" waists and trimmings of braid and buttons in military effect in the front.

With a Separate Skirt of Blue Gabardine, Is Worn a Waist of Sand Colored Net.

Dainty voile waists are shown, some pin tucked and others of the plain material trimmed with washable cord or braid and little soft crocheted buttons and with a dainty collar which stands high in the back, but does not keep the front of the neck from being free and open to the air.

Overblouse and coatee effects are very popular and will no doubt be used, especially for the very dressy waists.

The chiffon or chiffon cloth blouse of putty, sand, or biscuit colors are very smart and very practical this winter. They are made with high collars and usually button straight up the front with small silk-covered buttons. The waist of crepe de Chine is also very good, especially where made with large revers which fall gracefully in the front.

In an illustration I show a new blouse, collarless, with the neck cut in the new Callot square, which is most becoming and far less trying than the usual square or Dutch neck. The model is developed in craquele net and untrimmed, except for a cord outlining the neck. The skirt worn with this waist is an excellent one for the separate skirt, as it is made with a yoke and front in one and pleats at the side, causing the skirt to flare in the up-to-date manner at the sides.

Fighting Fire on the P. R. R. System
High efficiency in the methods and apparatus used in fighting fires on the Pennsylvania Railroad System is shown by the annual report of the Insurance Department, which has just been compiled.

Four hundred and twenty-seven fires—more than three-quarters of all that occurred on the property of the System last year—were extinguished by company employees before receiving the aid of public fire departments. Promptness in checking these fires kept the average loss on each down to $43, although the property directly endangered was worth $9,516,434. The actual damage sustained in fires extinguished by employees was only $18,468, or less than one-fifth of one per cent. of the value of the property threatened.

Organized fire brigades among the employees last year checked 34 fires and saved $1,524,075 worth of property, at a loss of $706. Other employees, by the use of chemical extinguishers, put out 71 fires, saving property to the value of $3,713,228, with a loss of only $2,684; and by the use of company's fire hose protected property with a value of $1,779,022 through extinguishing 43 fires with a loss of $2,262.

The total fire loss on the Pennsylvania System during the year 1914, including fires where the assistance of City Fire Departments was received, was $653,483, while the value of the entire property was nearly $400,000,000, the fire loss being only 16 cents per $100 of property value at risk.

Many of the fires resulting in this loss were from causes over which the railroad company had no control. Forty-three fires originated on adjacent property. Incendiaries started twelve fires; boys were responsible for two; tramps for fifteen; lightning for seven, and carelessness with matches and tobacco for sixteen.

Magazines

Magazines are an accumulation of advertising pages with just enough reading matter sandwiched in between to keep them from being catalogs. The average magazine of today may be expected to contain about twelve articles: One on finance, one on politics, and ten love stories. High-brows may come and high-brows may go, but so long as sex writers remain the magazine editor should worry. Sometimes a man gets the idea that he can run a magazine and print neither love stories nor advertising, but these ventures never get farther than Volume One.

Love

Love is that indescribable something that gets into a fellow's system about the time his moustache begins to come out, and it generally stays with him until after he is married. It makes him sick in a way that he likes, and instead of doctoring for the germ, he does all he can to give it a nice, fat living. Having never been a girl, we don't know how they feel when in love, but we imagine they feel just like big chunks of candy wanting someone to come and eat them up.

Every Woman's Car

It is not necessary for a woman to be an expert mechanic or electrical engineer to drive a FORD Car. That is because Fords' do not need much skilled attention these days. They are built to take you where you want to go and bring you back again.

FORD cars have always been peculiarly favored by women, because from the very beginning the Ford has been, to the highest degree, simple in construction and simple in operation and control. They know the car can't run away from them even if they should thru fright lose their heads. With all that the motor car now offers it is not unreasonable to predict that women drivers will soon be as numerous as men. Drop in at

WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at National Capital.

Washington, D. C., February 2.—More than 600 delegates representing the big commercial interests of the country are attending the sessions of the national council of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. This meeting is the third annual convention of the council in Washington. Boards of trade and commercial organizations throughout the country are represented in the council by men who are leaders in their communities in financial, commercial and manufacturing circles, and as they represent all political faiths and speak without bias or prejudice, the country may expect trustworthy information upon a great many questions affecting the national welfare about which there is dispute. The administration ship bill now before Congress is the most important matter before the council.

The filibuster against this bill in the Senate, which has thus far been successful, is causing much uneasiness, especially among the Democrats who fear it may not pass. Several night sessions of the Senate have already been held to force a vote but without avail. Champions of the measure believe it will go through if brought to a vote. Its opponents declare that serious international complications will follow its passage, but administration officials strenuously deny that any foreign government has protested against it.

The time consumed by the filibuster against the shipping bill has given rise to apprehension on the part of Democrats and Republicans that an extra session may be necessary. Only a third of the short session remains, and one of the great supply bills has thus far been enacted into law.

Political gossip may not amount to much but members of Congress are clutching eagerly at the undercurrent of stray talk that is going about the city these days on the subject of an extra session, and the most interesting bit that has been retailed in the House lobbies and cloakrooms is the oft-repeated assertion that the President wants an extra session for the political effect on the country. According to cloakroom politicians, the administration is well aware of the fact that the Democratic party is not in an enviable position before the country; and it is well known that the administration wants to see enacted a rural credit law, the Philippine bill, and the conservation measures.

Secretary of State Bryan has declared in a recent note to the German Ambassador that hydroaeroplanes such as have been manufactured in this country and delivered to England, are not to be regarded as vessels of war "whose delivery to belligerent states by neutrals should be stopped."

This is "Suffrage week" among supporters of woman suffrage in Washington. A motion picture melodrama "Your Girl and Mine," produced by Mrs. Medill McCormick, chairman of the Congressional Committee, of the National American Woman Suffrage Association, is being run at the Colonial Theatre on Pennsylvania Avenue. The play is designed for the two-fold purpose of arousing interest in the suffragist cause throughout the country and to provide revenue for continuing the fight for the vote both in the States and in the National Capital. In Washington, it has accomplished a third end—that of uniting the various suffrage organizations of the District and directing their energies in the same channel.

Representatives of Washington of the North, South, East and West, and a few diplomats from foreign countries combined on the night of February first to make a brilliant success of the annual charity ball given in aid of the Southern Relief Society. Both ballrooms at the Willard Hotel was thronged from 9 o'clock until the early hours of the morning, when the last of the dancers departed. The sybillant accent of the South was heard on all sides, and amid the beaux who led off in the dancing were many distinguished veterans of the Confederacy paying court to the belles of their own era as well as to those of the new generation. The Vice President and Mrs. Marshall and the wives of the cabinet officers stood in the receiving line with Miss Heth, giving an official character to the ball. The Minister of Peru, the staff of the Japanese embassy, and Mr. Lefevre, of the Panama legation, were among the representatives of the diplomatic corps who added interest to the occasion. Colonel Calhoun made the presentations.

He left His glorious church, the Bride of Christ, to continue and bring to perfection the work of renewing man. Now, one of the many things that has come to us from the early church is the Apostolic Rite of Confirmation. It is this, "The Laying on of Hands upon those who are Baptized, and come to years of Discretion," that we will consider next Sunday morning.
